The French Agency for Biodiversity is a public institution of the Ministry of Ecological and Solidarity Transition. It carries out missions in support of the implementation of public policies in the fields of knowledge, preservation, management and restoration of the biodiversity of terrestrial, aquatic and marine environments.

KMAE publishes articles, short communications, reviews, comments and replies that contribute to a scientific understanding of freshwater ecosystems and the impact of human activities upon these systems.

Subjects covered:

1. Structure and dynamics of aquatic ecosystems ;
2. Impacts and adaptations to global changes ;
3. Socio-economical analysis of environmental benefits and impacts ;
4. Bioconservation, ecosystems restoration and ecological engineering, and other related management topics, all constitute the key elements of eligible papers.
